Helicopter Underwater Egress Training

This 8-hour program is the most comprehensive training available for pilots and passengers who must fly overwater for their jobs in Alaska. It is designed for the FAA, oilfield support, research personnel and frequent bush flyers.

Program Information

The program is designed to prepare individuals for an over water emergency while traveling to and from offshore Oil Facilities, conducting Marine Mammal surveys, Seismic Operations, and EMS transport. Emphasis is placed on techniques for escaping both stable and submerged airframes. Students learn and actively perform skills in a pool environment, guided by instructors, using two different portable airframe escape trainers as well as life rafts, PFDs and equipment found in aviation emergencies. The program consists of both classroom and pool instruction training.

Classroom Training

Classroom training focuses on understanding aircraft emergencies, risk assessment, pre-crash decision making, aircraft ditching techniques, and post-crash sea survival. In addition, students will be instructed on crash positions, aircraft restraint systems, aviation PFDs, pre-positioned aircraft life-support equipment, and egress steps for escaping both surface and submerged airframes.

Water Session

The pool session is where the most intense training occurs. This water training is extremely important to your offshore survival and to your HUET certification. Students will practice submerged escapes from both lap belt and full chest harnesses. Practical exercises include functioning of push out windows, rotating door handles, and penetration of underwater barriers while submerged. USCG Rescue Basket hoist training is included.
